
See you at ORFC19?

We're delighted to be sponsoring and taking part in The Oxford Real Farming Conference again this year, as it celebrates its 10th anniversary.

Complex seed mixtures and the benefits they bring in terms of resilience, as well as to soil fertility, animal health and farm profitability, are key to our work at Cotswold Seeds and following a year of challenging weather conditions, drought resistance has never been more important. Our technical advisors will be on hand to talk face-to-face about herbal leys and green manures and their role as natural fertilisers and mineral rich feed, as well as their management, establishment and how to use them in crop rotations.

Come to our stand and pick up a free seed sample of our special Summer Cover and Pollinator Mix, containing clovers, trefoil and phacelia.

The 2019 conference promises to be the biggest yet – with more sessions and a new additional venue in Aldate's Church where there will be open space networking, stalls serving street food at lunch times and in the evenings, and an evening bar. It'll be a great way to start the new year and we look forwards to seeing many of our customers and friends there.
